

Computer Law

We offer legal advice and solutions for all your business needs revolving around computers and the Internet. We also offer seminars on computer and Internet issues. Software Development. We are experienced in all the phases of software development. This includes copyright, employee contracts for software engineers, code licensing, EULAs, etc. We can provide legal advice in all phases of the software development cycle. Software Purchases and Sales. Software sales and purchases involve many unique contract issues specific to the software industry. We can provide legal guidance for concerns such as sunset clauses, the enforceability of software contract terms, prevention of copyright infringement and many other issues. Internet Business. We assist clients with their legal needs revolving around their Internet business. Developing a business plan for the Internet differs from a traditional business plan. The legal issues cross many spectrums from copyright, trademark, and specific laws such as DMCA and COPA. The following is a list of computer law Issues with which we can assist you: Contracts: Terms of service (TOS), privacy agreements, end user license agreements (EULA), vendor sales, software purchase agreements, warranty agreements and employee contracts (special needs of software developers). General issues: Privacy and security, copyright, trademark, DMCA, Child Online Protection Act (COPA) and Can Spam Act. Business Formation and Operations: Business plans, trade secrets and general business law (see Business Law).